

Foothills Telecommunications Tower Salvage

You are receiving this newsletter because AltaLink is proposing to salvage a telecommunications tower near you.

AltaLink is moving out of its Foothills office building. The telecommunications tower at AltaLink's Foothills office site, located at 7503 30th Street SE, Calgary, is no longer required as AltaLink is leaving the location.

If the project is approved, you may see or hear construction crews in the area. We have set strict standards by which we operate, including restricting work hours to between 7 a.m. and 10 p.m. to reduce the impacts to local residents and businesses, ensuring safe construction practices and following environmental protection measures.

Please note this salvage may involve the use of cranes. The tower is located within the fenceline of the office site and cranes and construction activities will only occur within this fenceline.

The radio traffic from the tower has been transferred to an existing fibre optic network.

Next steps

After our notification process is complete, we will file an application with the Alberta Utilities Commission (AUC). The AUC ensures the fair and responsible delivery of Alberta's utility services.

To learn more about the AUC process and how you can become involved, please refer to the brochure included in this package titled Public involvement in a proposed utilities development.

DEFINITION:

Telecommunications tower
Telecommunications towers transmit data to our system and control centre, allowing us to monitor the operation of the electric system and ensure the safety and reliability of the system for our customers.
